

Dance!

by DANIEL KIRK

Do you hear music? Maggie does.
It makes her dance all day.
She kicks her legs, she twists and twirls
like she's in the ballet.

She rolls her head and shoulders
as she stretches every limb,
pirouetting by the blackboard,
doing pliets in the gym.

She dances in the hallway,
she dances in her seat.
She dances with her fingers,
as she taps her dancing feet.

The music making Maggie dance
is in her mind, it's true.
But sometimes, when I watch her dance,
I think I hear it, too!
